

Press release

Saint-Ouen, France, 08 April 2021

Owello, a subsidiary of Swiss Life Prévoyance & Santé, goes live with Inetum's Cleva solution to manage its social protection offer for expatriates.

Swiss Life, a benchmark player in insurance and asset management, and Inetum (formerly Gfi and i2S), the European leader in digital services and solutions, have announced the rollout of the Cleva Insurance Solution at Owello, a new subsidiary of Swiss Life Prévoyance & Santé.

To become the delegated management partner par excellence for mobility benefits, Swiss Life via its subsidiary Owello has launched a complete global premium protection offer for companies that want to offer security for their employees who go and work abroad. The group has developed its own 100% digital delegated-management platform using the Cleva solution for subscription, management and services under its collective health and preventative insurance contracts.

Inetum, partner to Swiss Life's new subsidiary, Owello

To help them meet this strategic challenge, Owello has chosen Inetum as technology partner with its solution Cleva, for its highly customizable full-web platform and capacity for fast integration with its "StarterBox" tools. Swiss Life's choice affirms Inetum's position as #1 among multi-business software developers and a leader in the health, preventative and retirement insurance market.

"We wanted a solution to manage all preventative and health insurance service contracts from the same application base in a fast, smooth and interoperable way. To address the needs of our development programme, we asked Inetum to handle this strategic system since their Cleva solution is perfectly suited to our needs in terms of process industrialization, information ecosystem architecture, and projection towards innovative solutions. The successful go-live shows that we made the right choice. Thanks to our two teams' agility and expertise, our preventative and health insurance products were launched in less than 6 months," says Swiss Life Prévoyance & Santé CEO Pierre François.

"The partnership with Owello and Swiss Life, in a project of this size, demonstrates the proven expertise of Cleva and Inetum in the rollout of strategic projects. Beyond the functional and technological aspects, the success of this rollout first of all flows from the trust and close collaboration between our two teams," according to Rodolphe Peim, VP Group – Head of International Insurance & Finance Software.

With this solution, Owello gets a full-web software platform that is highly customizable and integrable to accelerate its growth and reach its goal – to become the benchmark 100% digital delegated-management partner worldwide.
